

Artist Statement

Leslie Norberg

Almost every working artist has explored the self-portrait. Being a part of a visually sophisticated culture, we make these portraits every day, especially with the use of smart phones. By increasing the distance between the camera and the figure, the image becomes less about the individual and more about the emotive qualities expressed through the interaction of the figure in the environment.

	Title	Media	Original format
Figure 1:	Absence	Photo	Inkjet Print, 30 x 24 in.
Figure 2:	Adrift	Photo	Inkjet Print, 30 x 24 in.
Figure 3:	Ascend	Photo	Inkjet Print, 30 x 24 in.
Figure 4:	Complacency	Photo	Inkjet Print, 30 x 24 in.
Figure 5:	Contentment	Photo	Inkjet Print, 30 x 24 in.
Figure 6:	Deliberation	Photo	Inkjet Print, 30 x 24 in.
Figure 7:	Found	Photo	Inkjet Print, 30 x 24 in.
Figure 8:	Reflect	Photo	Inkjet Print, 30 x 24 in.
Figure 9:	Seek	Photo	Inkjet Print, 30 x 24 in.
Figure 10:	Swift	Photo	Inkjet Print, 30 x 24 in.

Figure 1: Absence.

Figure 2: Adrift.

Figure 3: Ascend.

Figure 4: Complacency.

Figure 5: Contentment.

Figure 6: Deliberation.

Figure 8: Reflect.

Figure 9: Seek.

Figure 10: Swift.