Welcome to Colorado State University!

Colorado State University is committed to student success. From their first Preview orientation to graduation and beyond, we want all our students to be well-prepared academically and personally for whatever challenges and opportunities the future holds.

We can't run a successful, winning athletics program without a strong commitment to the success of our student-athletes. Earning a CSU degree is our ultimate goal for each student-athlete at CSU, and Ram fans can be proud that our players continue to graduate and succeed at a higher rate even than the general student body. In fact, our Ram athletes have gone on to become doctors, lawyers, educators, business professionals, public servants, parents, community leaders, and yes, even professional athletes. Their energy and experience, combined with a solid education, positions them to be champions no matter where the future leads.

But all students can encounter obstacles on the road to earning a diploma—obstacles often related to finances, indecision, desire for a greater sense of community, need for academic support, and sometimes lack of personal motivation. While student-athletes encounter many of these same obstacles, they also serve as highly visible role models and strive for winning records. As with all our students, CSU is dedicated to providing the resources and programs they need to achieve their full potential, with state-of-the-art training facilities, academic support, service-learning opportunities, and focused study environments.

The life of a student-athlete is formed around hard work, self-discipline, teamwork, and a passion for achievement. That spirit—matched with strong academic support systems and high expectations—is a winning formula for Colorado State. We're proud to celebrate another great year in Rams sports and to recognize the students and fans who make it all possible.

Go Rams!

President

Colorado State University is transforming lives, solving problems, supporting economic vitality and targeting our world's greatest challenges. Committed to the land-grant heritage of education, research and outreach, Colorado State sets the standard as a 21st-century research university characterized by a global reach, scholarly excellence and an immediate impact on the world. And as a land-grant university, we're particularly committed to creating access and opportunity for people in Colorado and around the world who can benefit from our special brand of hands-on, engaged learning.

Challenging academic programs and world-changing research are hallmarks of Colorado State, and it is our special commitment to service, outreach and transforming our world through innovation that sets this university apart from other institutions. That commitment is reflected in our classrooms, in the world of our faculty around the world and in our groundbreaking commitment to move research breakthroughs rapidly from the laboratory to the marketplace.

Even more important, it is reflected in the quality of our students and graduates, who embody the university's mission and go on from CSU to make a significant impact on our world.

With more than 150 programs of study and 78 undergraduate degree programs offered in eight colleges and the graduate school, and a faculty-to-student ratio of 17:1, students have access to a wealth of educational possibilities at Colorado State. Along with outstanding programs in the liberal and performing arts, humanities and social sciences, Colorado State offers some of the top professional programs in the country in construction management, occupational therapy, psychology, communications and agriculture.

Colorado State is also making investments in new facilities--$27 million has been committed for building a new indoor practice facility and a new academic and training center dedicated to student-athletes. New residence halls, a parking garage and both new and renovated academic buildings are just a few of the projects under construction across campus.

We invite you to learn more about Colorado State, a university with vision, character and a commitment to excellence.

Colorado State University takes very seriously its role in educating student-athletes. Excellence is expected on the field and in the classroom.

The most recent NCAA academic statistics reveal that Colorado State leads the Mountain West Conference in graduation rate for student-athletes at 66 percent – well ahead of the conference's overall student-athlete graduation rate of 57 percent. In football, Colorado State is second in the MW, graduating 68 percent of its student-athletes – again, well ahead of the conference average of 49 percent.

Colorado State, however, is not resting on its reputation for graduating its student-athletes. The state-of-the-art Anderson Academic Center, which greatly enhances the academic facilities available for student-athletes, opened in August 2009.

While the athletic department takes its role in the educational process very seriously, Colorado State's mission to provide a world-class education is at the core of academic success. U.S. News and World Report ranked Colorado State in its top tier in its annual "America's Best Colleges" report. The university offers 79 majors and 27 minors, and many of its programs are ranked among the best in the country.

Colorado State continues to push forward in its mission to provide the best possible education. Construction recently was completed on the state-of-the-art University Center for the Arts and Computer Science buildings, along with the indoor practice facility, academic and training center, and the Rockwell Hall expansion at the College of Business.

- CSU's Veterinary Medicine program ranks second in the country and is the national leader in federal research dollars.
- BusinessWeek ranked CSU's undergraduate College of Business program 67th (up from 73rd in 2008). The program ranks 30th among all public schools and 14th among all colleges and universities in the West and Southwest. The marketing and business law programs were ranked in the nation's Top 10 by the magazine.
- In December 2008, CSU conferred its 150,000th bachelor's degree and 200,000th overall degree.
- According to NCAA statistics, CSU's graduation rate for student-athletes is higher than the graduation rate for the overall student body.

Fort Collins Facts

- No. 1 place to live in the United States (Money magazine, August 2006).
- No. 1 Best Place to Live and Work for Young Professionals (pop. 100,000-200,000), Next Generation Consulting, March 2009.
- No. 2 in Forbes magazine's best United States cities for business and careers (March 2009); Denver ranked 14th and Boulder was 20th among five Colorado locations in the publication's top 40.

- One of the Top 20 Places to Thrive (Best Boomer Towns, February 2009).
- Ranked 10th-best educated city in America (Forbes magazine, November 2008).
- One of the Best Places to Raise Your Kids (BusinessWeek, November 2008).
- Gold-level Bicycle Friendly Community (League of American Bicyclists, September 2008).

One of Colorado's most vibrant cities, Fort Collins is the best place in the country to live, work and play. Located on the northern Front Range of the majestic Rocky Mountains, the city is within an hour's drive of Denver, the nation's 25th-largest metro area.

This city of 143,986 residents basks in 300 days of sunshine per year — more than San Diego and Florida — and includes the historic Old Town district with its restaurants, shops, and entertainment, all within walking distance of Colorado State University's campus.

Since its founding as a military fort in 1864, Fort Collins has anchored northern Colorado's rich heritage of academic, business and recreational pursuits. Hiking, mountain biking, kayaking, river rafting and rock climbing are just a few popular outdoor pursuits for students and residents.

The city maintains more than 600 acres of parks, 5,000 acres of natural areas, 20 miles of off-street trails for hiking and biking, and three golf courses. The Lincoln Center and the University Center for the Arts, anchored in Fort Collins, are northern Colorado's cultural arts centers.

The Denver Metro Area, with a population of 2.4 million, is less than an hour's drive from Fort Collins. A major-league metropolis, named by the Sporting News the best sports city in the United States, Denver is home to three teams that have competed for their respective world championships in the past 14 years — the Super Bowl XXXII and XXXIII champion Denver Broncos, the 1996 and 2001 Stanley Cup champion Colorado Avalanche, and the 2007 National League champion Colorado Rockies, who lost the World Series that season to the Boston Red Sox. The Denver Nuggets, meanwhile, have made the playoffs in seven consecutive seasons, including a trip to the 2009 Western Conference finals against the eventual champion Los Angeles Lakers.

Sports fans in Colorado are among the most passionate in the nation, and for good reason — their teams are winners.

Denver has all the features of any big city, including great shopping and nightlife on the 16th Street Mall (Denver Pavilions, below left), a one-of-a-kind concert venue in Red Rocks Amphitheatre (below, second from right), an adrenaline-inducing amusement park in Elitch Gardens, and the world's 10th-busiest airport, Denver International. Nicknamed the Mile High City because it is one mile above sea level, downtown Denver is home to the Colorado state capitol building, the 13th step of which is exactly one mile in elevation.

Cost: $7 million
Size: 16,000 square feet,
Location: Southeast of the McGraw Athletic Center

Features:

- Training portion includes a state-of-the-art weight room, strength and conditioning offices, a nutrition center and restrooms.
- Academic center features five private tutorial rooms and large study areas
- Includes a computer lab with 30 workstations, more workspace and offices for CSU's academic staff.

The McGraw Athletic Center (right), which was built in 1998 and houses the CSU athletic department, is now accompanied by a pair of new, state-of-the-art facilities: the Academic & Training Center (top) and the Indoor Practice Facility (next page--0). Both facilities were shown off at the grand opening celebration on Sept. 18, 2009.

In 1998, Colorado State enhanced its weight room and built an academic center as part of the McGraw Athletic Center project, but these facilities no longer meet the needs of its expanded student-athlete base, nor do they allow the Rams to compete for top-quality recruits.

Because of the heavy time constraints placed on CSU student-athletes through practice, travel, strength and conditioning, and community service, a quality learning environment is essential for the university's student-athletes to achieve the high standards of academic success expected of them.

The Academic and Training Center is the latest centerpiece for CSU's athletic program and support its mission to recruit, educate, develop, and graduate Rams student-athletes within an environment that pursues excellence, values integrity and ethical conduct, promotes respect for all individuals, teaches sportsmanship, entertains our constituents and emphasizes championship performance.

Every CSU program benefits from the Rams' new facilities. The Indoor Practice Facility will be used by all of the Rams' sports teams, whether they are in season or involved in offseason conditioning.

Ram field was built in 1995 and upgraded in 2003 to provide CSU softball with one of the best playing facilities in the Mountain West.

Ram Field is the home of Colorado State's softball program, located on the Colorado State campus, just south of Moby Arena and the Anderson Academic and Training Center. It features two batting cages, two pitching areas and a large multi-purpose area just outside the Rams' third-base dugout, all added as part of a major upgrade in the fall of 2003.

Additionally, the program has benefited from the installation of two indoor batting cages in the school's auxiliary gym adjacent to Moby Arena. The recent upgrades have played a vital role in the Rams' practice and preparations.

In September 2010, Ram Field received a brand-new scoreboard. The new board, which replaced the original installed in 1995, features an inning-by-inning line score.

Bigger, Faster, Stronger

Colorado State features some of the best athletic facilities in the Mountain West. Since its construction in 1999, the McGraw Athletic Center and the additions to Moby Arena have provided Colorado State student-athletes the tools to excel. In 2009, the Rams unveiled two more state-of-the-art facilities, including an Academic and Weight Training Center, and an Indoor Practice Facility that will accommodate two full-size volleyball courts.

Training Room

During the summer of 2013, the training room went through a major transformation, doubling in size to help make it one of the finest in the country. It features a multitude of taping and treatment tables, rehabilitation equipment, and hot/cold tubs, including an underwater treadmill, the only of its kind in the state.

JACK GRAHAM

Director of Athletics | Second Year | Colorado State, '75

"We expect, at Colorado State University, that the excellence of our athletic programs will mirror that of the excellence that has always been the academic foundation at this great university."

- Jack Graham

Bold New Era. Those three words have come to define the vision, direction and accomplishments of John C. "Jack" Graham's tenure as Director of Athletics at Colorado State University, since his hire on Dec. 1, 2011.

A successful business leader and former Rams quarterback, Graham was chosen by CSU President Tony Frank to lead the institution's athletic programs, and more importantly to apply the vision and drive necessary to produce excellence in every aspect.

"In Jack Graham, we have the perfect combination of dedicated Ram fan, stand-out athlete and experienced business leader with the skills and business acumen to energize and advance our overall athletics program," Frank said upon announcing the hire. "I am excited about the enthusiasm he will generate among our students, coaches, alumni, donors and fans. He brings high standards, high expectations and a passion for winning that is infectious."

Graham immediately went to work reshaping the department, beginning with the hire of Jim McElwain as head football coach on Dec. 13, 2011, from his offensive coordinator position at Alabama, which was on its way to a second national championship victory in a three-year span.

That move provided the first glimpse of what the Bold New Era would mean for Colorado State, and was followed by the high-profile hire of former national coach of the year Larry Eustachy in men's basketball, and the hire of Ryun Williams to lead the women's basketball program.

"We have the same expectations for excellence in our sports program that we have for all areas of the university," Frank added. "With Jack's leadership, I see no reason why CSU athletics cannot and should not compete at the highest level. To get there, we have to dream big, work hard and settle for nothing less than excellence."

Immediately upon his appointment, Graham also announced he would drive a process to secure approval to build an on-campus football stadium at Colorado State to replace 44-year-old Hughes Stadium, located several miles from the school's Fort Collins campus.

Graham succeeded in leading an ambitious process that by early October 2012 secured the unanimous recommendation of Colorado State's Board of Governors to Dr. Frank to allow the athletics department to begin the fundraising process for the stadium. It was another major achievement in just Graham's 10th month on the job.

More illustrations of Colorado State's Bold New Era came in the form of two significant business deals brokered by Graham and his senior leadership team in November 2012. The first was an announcement that Colorado State's athletic programs were entering into a partnership with

CSU President Dr. Anthony Frank (background) introduced Jack Graham as the Rams' 17th Director of Athletics on Dec. 1, 2011

Athletic Department Mission Statement

The purpose of the Colorado State University Department of Athletics is to recruit, educate, develop and graduate student-athletes within an environment that pursues excellence, values integrity and ethical conduct, promotes respect for all individuals, teaches sportsmanship, entertains our constituents and emphasizes championship performance.

Under Armour to provide apparel and footwear beginning in July 2013. The second came four days later when Graham announced a five-year partnership with 105.5 ESPN Radio to be the radio home for the Rams' football and men's and women's basketball games and coaches' shows.

In January 2013, the decision was made by Graham to add the sport of women's soccer for the 2013 season. The addition drew widespread praise for recognizing the popularity of the sport not just in Colorado, but nationwide, and veteran coach Bill Hempen was named the program's first head coach.

Graham also has set forth a clearly-defined set of standards for Colorado State's student-athletes, to go along with his commitment to providing the absolute best student-athlete support. His motto for all Rams is to "Do it All." The three key expectations are to succeed academically and graduate, be people of great character, and to win. Achievement in anything less than all three areas doesn't meet the expectations for a Colorado State student-athlete.

CSU's athletics department supports approximately 400 student-athletes competing in 16 varsity sports.

"Athletics play a critical role at CSU," Graham said at the time of his hire. "Our teams can and should be leaders in defining our university's traditions, and they can be catalysts that unite our students and community. I am honored to return to CSU and believe our success in athletics can and will send a signal about the overall quality of CSU's leadership, our standards and our talent. We are committed to winning while maintaining the highest level of integrity and student success."

Graham played quarterback for the Rams from 1973-74 and graduated from Colorado State in 1975 with a bachelor's degree in U.S. history. He was drafted by the Miami Dolphins. Graham went on to a successful 30-year career in the international insurance and reinsurance markets, where he was known as an innovator and effective leader.

In 1998, Graham founded ICAT Managers, a leader in catastrophic risk insurance products. He sold ICAT, including its Lloyd's of London business, in 2010 and remains on the company's board of directors. Graham also sits on the advisory board of the National Center for Atmospheric Research.

JEN FISHER

HEAD COACH | FOURTH SEASON AT CSU (62-89), 15TH SEASON OVERALL (542-244)
COLORADO STATE (1997)

Jen Fisher enters her fourth season at the helm of the Colorado State softball program in 2014, where she has guided her alma mater back to prominence in the Mountain West.

The 2010 NCAA Division II National Coach of the Year at Metro State, Fisher did not take long to add more hardware to her resume, earning Mountain West Coach of the Year honors in just her second season at the helm of the Rams' program, in 2012.

After tallying an 8-43 mark in her first season in Fort Collins, Fisher engineered one of the greatest single-season turnarounds in school history in Year 2, leading the Rams to a 29-22 mark during the 2012 campaign, including an 8-4 mark and a tie for second place in the Mountain West standings. The Rams maintained the same level of competitiveness in 2013, again tying for second in the Mountain West.

Now, Fisher has the Rams poised to take the next step back to the national spotlight.

A native of Fort Collins, Fisher attended Rocky Mountain High School, where she starred for the Lobos in softball, basketball and tennis, and was selected as the school's female athlete of the year as a senior in 1990. She followed her outstanding prep career by playing softball collegiately at Creighton for one season before transferring to Colorado School of Mines, where she played shortstop and was the Orediggers' team captain in 1994.

At the conclusion of her playing career, Fisher returned home to Fort Collins, enrolling at CSU, where her father, Wayne Schubert, has been a professor in the university's world-renowned atmospheric sciences program since 1973. Fisher completed her bachelor's degree in mathematics in 1997, while also earning her secondary teaching license.

During that time, Fisher began to establish her coaching roots firmly within the community. From 1994-98, she coached the Fort Collins Buckaroos softball club, spending four seasons with the program. Fisher also spent three seasons as a developmental coach at Poudre High School before embarking on her collegiate coaching career at Otero Junior College in La Junta, Colo.

While at OJC (1999-2006), Fisher amassed an impressive record of 355-119 and won seven consecutive Region IX championships and Coach of the Year awards. Fisher's Rattlers squads averaged more than 43 victories per season. She guided seven NJCAA All-Americans and mentored 13 more student-athletes to Academic All-America status.

Fisher left OJC to resurrect a Metro State program that was slated to resume competition in 2008 after being disbanded in 1990. Using her consistent approach to the game, Fisher's winning ways continued immediately as the head coach of the Roadrunners.

In three seasons at the NCAA Division II level, Fisher guided the program from infancy to 125 wins, while surrendering just 36 ballgames. Fisher wasted little time in putting the Roadrunners' program on the national map, as well.

In 2008, Metro State's first season of competition, Fisher posted a record of 32-18 (26-11 Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference), laying the foundation for the next two seasons, which would feature back-to-back postseason appearances. The squad ranked first in the DII national standings in doubles (.206 per game), first in home runs (1.58 per game), and second in slugging percentage (.573).

Metro's 2009 squad went 40-12 (29-7 RMAC) behind the guidance of Fisher, the conference Coach of the Year. The team again ranked first in the national standings in home runs (1.88 per game) with a DII record-tying 98 total, and first in slugging percentage (.636). Fisher led the Roadrunners to the RMAC regular-season and tournament championships, earning an automatic berth to the NCAA tournament.

Just when the Roadrunners appeared to have reached the pinnacle of their success,

Fisher took her squad to new heights. In 2010, the team took the nation by storm, posting a record of 53-6 (37-2 RMAC), earning back-to-back regular-season and tournament conference titles. The squad ranked first nationally in home runs (1.9 per game) for the third straight year with 112 total, breaking its own record from 2009. The Roadrunners also ranked first in slugging percentage (.610) for the second straight year and second in winning percentage (.898). Part of that team was Wheat Ridge, Colo., native Tara Mickelson, whom Fisher coached to a DII-leading 25-homer season. Fisher once again was named league Coach of the Year, and following a run to the NCAA Central Region title and a Women's College World Series berth, Fisher captured CaptainU National Coach of the Year honors while her staff was tabbed as the NFCA Central Region Coaching Staff of the Year.

While there were plenty of victories to go around, Fisher did more than just pile up wins at Metro State. Encouraging a strong academic base and civic involvement to help her players become winners on and off the diamond, Fisher established an off-the-field partnership with the Denver West High School softball team. The Roadrunners helped the girls with life skills, as well as academic and personal pressures. For their efforts, the Metro State squad received a community engagement award from the NCAA.

Ten individuals have earned Academic All-Mountain West honors in each of Fisher's three seasons at CSU, the most in a single season in CSU history. Previously, it took seven seasons to reach 30 total honors, the number Fisher's players have reached in three.

On the field, CSU players have earned eight total All-Mountain West selections since 2012, the most in a two-year period since 2007-08. Included is Kacie McCarthy, the 2012 Mountain West Pitcher of the Year, and Ashlie Ortega, a 2013 Easton Fastpitch All-American – CSU's first since 2008.

Fisher was officially announced as the Rams' head coach on Aug. 20, 2010. She and her husband, Joe, a former CSU baseball player, have a son, Garrett Wayne, who turns 13 in October.

2014 Preview, 2013 Review & Program History

After back-to-back second-place finishes in the Mountain West, Head Coach Jen Fisher and the Colorado State Rams have their sights set high for the 2014 softball season.

"There's a bitter taste, being one game out two years in a row," Fisher said. "I think they're really hungry, especially with so many seniors."

The Rams return 12 letterwinners – including eight starters – from last year's lineup, and should compete to be one of the top offensive teams in the Mountain West. In all, CSU will bring back 81.1 percent of its runs scored from last year, 94.2 percent of its home runs, 89.2 percent of its RBI total and 85.8 percent of its total bases.

Leading the veteran group – made up of six seniors and five juniors – is 2013 Easton Fastpitch All-American Ashlie Ortega. The senior from Brighton, Colo., led the Rams in batting average, hits, runs, doubles, RBI, total bases and slugging in 2013.

The Rams have the explosive offense to compete for a conference title, but they'll have to replace two-time all-conference pitcher Kacie McCarthy, who is now a member of the Rams' coaching staff, as a student-assistant.

Returning pitchers Molly Randle and Holly Reinke will look to fill the gap, in addition to a pair of newcomers in sophomore transfer Kaitlyn Crawford and freshman Larisa Petakoff. During her four-year career at Calvary Chapel High School in Downey, Calif., Petakoff went 67-9 with a 0.70 ERA, winning four conference championships and a state title.

"We have a lot of confidence in Molly, and Holly is a talented pitcher who is a year older and hungry," Fisher said. "We're also excited about Larisa; we'll need all of them to fill Kacie's shoes."

Fisher says the biggest key to success, however, is on defense.

"We lost so many close games last year, that we're really focused on playing errorless ball," she said. "We want to do that for our pitching staff."

Wherever Fisher has coached, she has developed success. In 13 seasons, she has led her teams to 542 victories, nine conference titles and a trip to the 2010 NCAA Division II Women's College World Series. That year, she was named the NCAA Division II Coach of the Year, and in 2012, she earned Mountain West Coach of the Year honors after a 21-win improvement from her first season in Fort Collins.

Fisher has planted the foundation for success at CSU. Now she's looking to get over the hump and take the next step.

"Softball can be a very simple game," said Fisher, a 1997 graduate of CSU. "If you pitch well and play defense, you can be in every game, which is what we've done the past couple of years. We've been in the games with some of the best teams, but now it's time to win those games."

The Rams' 56-game schedule was strategically prepared to make the team stronger, as CSU will play six teams that competed in last year's NCAA tournament. Included in the mix is Tennessee, the preseason No. 1 team in the country, and San Diego State and San José State of the Mountain West.

In addition to the Rams' 12 home conference games, they will host local rival Northern Colorado, a three-game series vs. UTEP and the Colorado State Classic, featuring Dayton, Nebraska-Omaha and Southern Utah.
