

ly Andersen Arends

Every woman's body tells a unique story: the stages of her life, the tasks her body has undertaken, and the changes of its many shapes and forms. Wrinkles tell the story of the past. There is a beauty in how the events of our lives are displayed on the canvas of our skin. Through my work, women are open to be proud of the smooth skin of their youth as well as the wrinkled skin of their future.

A woman's body changes after the vessel of her womb has been filled and emptied. Also, the stages of her life influence the shapes of her form. In my work, vessels that are worn or stand-alone enforce the idea and metaphor of containment. These vessels are meant to give an internal and external aspect of invited interaction. There is a sense of mystery and a privilege of knowing and experiencing what is inside. From the vessel of the womb, to the wrinkled skin of the female body, I have explored and celebrated what it is to be a woman through my eyes.

Title	Material/Size
Figure 1: Willendorf	Copper, 6 in x 6 in
Figure 2: Willendorf	Copper, 6 in x 6 in
Figure 3: Wrinkled Amulet	Sterling Silver, 1 in x 1 in
Figure 4: Wrinkled Amulet	Sterling Silver, 1 in x 1 in
Figure 5: Wrinkled Amulet	Sterling Silver, 1 in x 1 in
Figure 6: Inherited Wisdom	Copper, 3 in x 3 ½ in
Figure 7: Belly	Copper, 3 in x 3 ½ in
Figure 8: In-Fertility	Copper, 6 in x 3 ½ in
Figure 9: In-Fertility	Copper, 6 in x 3 ½ in
Figure 10: Seed Within	Brass, Fine Silver, 2 in x 2 in

Figure 1: Willendorf

Figure 2: Willendorf

Figure 3: Wrinkled Amulet

Figure 4: Wrinkled Amulet

Figure 5: Wrinkle Amulet

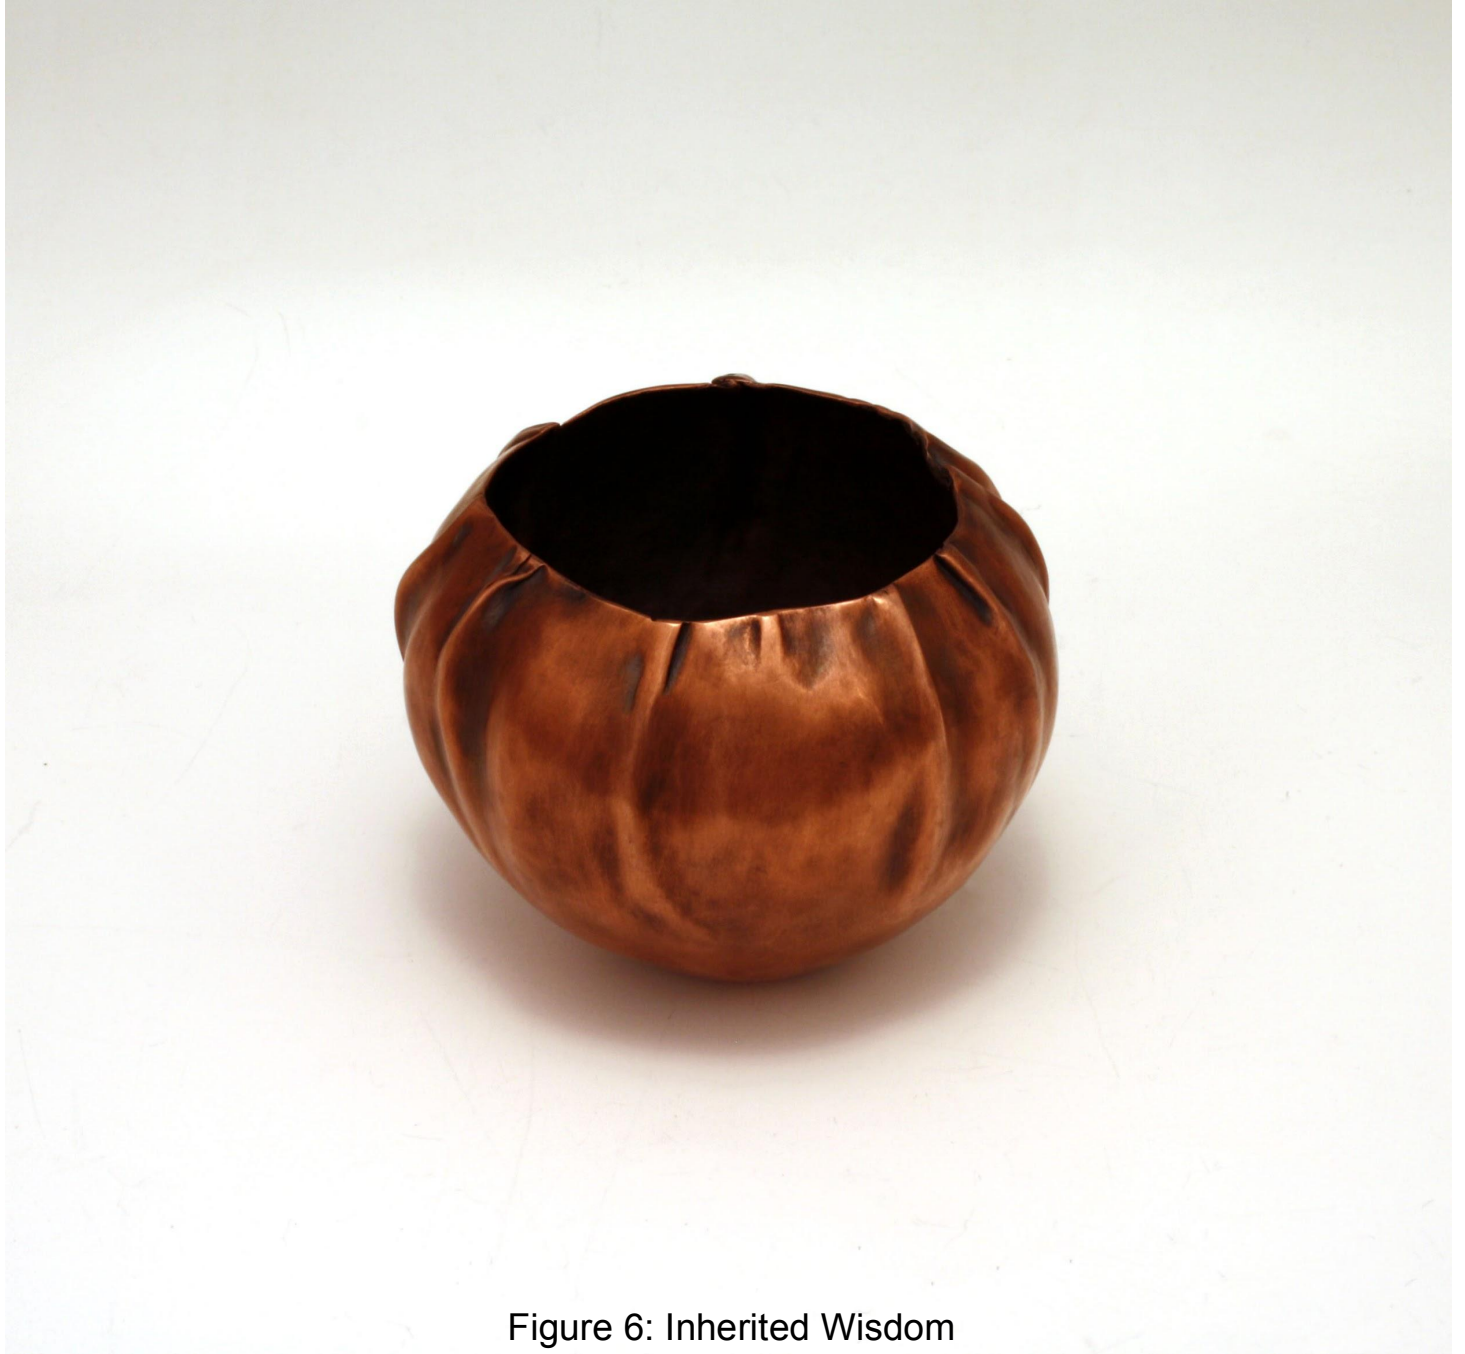

Figure 6: Inherited Wisdom

Figure 7: Belly

Figure 8: In-Fertility

Figure 9: In-Fertility

Figure 9: Seed Within